SUMMARY OF MEETING:

The purpose of the meeting was to introduce the new General Counsel of McDonald's to Commissioner Moore and his staff.

Mr. Kindler gave the Commissioner a little history about the company. He also described the growth of their international operations and told the Commissioner about the success of McDonald's in Moscow and in certain Middle Eastern countries.

The Commissioner asked about the beef scare in Britain and inquired if that had hurt business there. Mr. Kindler replied that McDonald's had been able to secure non-British beef relatively quickly and that business was back to normal.

Mr. Kindler noted that it was his intention to work cooperatively with the Commission. He also noted that McDonald's was waiting to hear from CPSC staff about ideas for the next phase of the safety campaign that McDonald's is undertaking in cooperation with the Commission.

Commissioner Moore thanked Mr. Kindler for stopping by and wished him well in his capacity as General Counsel with McDonald's.
